Detainee Aliases	Lillie; Bashir Bin Lep; Nazri; Ali

Date of Birth	26 December 1976

Mohammed Bashir Bin Lap, a.k.a. Lillie (MY-10022), was a key lieutenant for senior al-Qa'ida and Jemaah Islamiyah leader Riduan Bin Isomuddin, a.k.a. Hambali (ID-10019). MY-10022 trained at al-Farouq, swore allegiance to Usama Bin Ladin, and was selected to be a member of a suicide cell for an al-Qa'ida "second wave" attack targeting the tallest building in California. After that plot was cancelled, MY-10022 helped Hambali plan and direct operations throughout Southeast Asia by casing targets, researching bombs, obtaining false documents, and serving as Hambali's interlocutor with local supporters. MY-10022 also facilitated financial transfers from al-Qa'ida to Hambali, portions of which were used for terrorist operations, probably including the attacks in Bali in October 2002 and the attack on the J.W. Marriott in Jakarta, Indonesia, in August 2003.

During his detention at Guantanamo Bay, MY-10022 has committed a low number of disciplinary infractions in comparison with other detainees. MY-10022 has at least one assault against the guard force, which he probably committed because he perceived his grievances were not addressed. MY-10022 has provided interrogators with significant information of value on his extremist activities and associations before his capture, but he probably has withheld some information.

Most of MY-10022's comments on life after detention have centered on continuing to engage in violent extremism. MY-10022 views America as an enemy of Islam, and he has spoken of his intent to fight and kill Americans, specifically US soldiers. MY-10022 has not shown any regrets, and should he be released, most likely would engage in wars where he perceives Muslims are being oppressed.

There are no indications that MY-10022's family members in Malaysia have engaged in extremist activities, and he has no known associations with at-large extremists.
