The Periodic Review Board, by consensus, determined that continued law of war detention of the detainee is no longer necessary to protect against a continuing significant threat to the security of the United States.

In making this determination, the Board found that in light of the factors and conditions of transfer identified below, the threat which the detainee presents can be adequately mitigated. Also, the detainee's lack of a leadership role in an extremist organization and the limited timeframe of his associations with AQ members, the detainee's expressed willingness to participate in a rehabilitation program, the detainee's candor in discussing his pre-detention activities in his first hearing, and the detainee's generally improved compliance in detention.

The PRB recommends the following conditions that relate to the detainee's transfer: Transfer only to Oman in accordance with the detainee's desires and his need for a strong resettlement program which includes family reunification and appropriate security assurances as negotiated by and agreed to by relevant USG departments and agencies.
