The Periodic Review Board, by consensus, determined continued law of war detention of the detainee remains necessary to protect against a continuing significant threat to the security of the United States.

In making this determination, the Board considered the detainee's history as a recruiter and facilitator for al-Qaeda and the Taliban in Saudi Arabia, his weapons and explosives training at several al-Qaeda camps, as well as his level of commitment to violent extremism as demonstrated by his recruiting activities, travel to conflict zones for purposes of engaging in the fight, and fighting on the frontlines against the Northern Alliance and US Forces in Afghanistan. Further, the Board considered the detainee's problematic and unpredictable behavior in detention, including significant disciplinary infractions. The Board had difficulty assessing the detainee's current mindset due to his decision not to participate in the hearing and looks forward to reviewing the detainee's file in six months. The Board encourages the detainee to fully participate in any future review, as well as meet with any representatives from Saudi Arabia who may come to Guantanamo.
