DECISION: The Periodic Review Board (PRB) determines:

By consensus, continued law of war detention of the detainee remains necessary to protect against a continuing significant threat to the security of the United States.

By consensus, continued law of war detention is no longer necessary to protect against a continuing significant threat to the security of the United States.

FACTORS WHICH CONTRIBUTED TO THE CONSENSUS DETERMINATION (attach additional sheets if needed)

- Significant derogatory information regarding past involvement in activities in Afghanistan to include basic and advanced training from Al Qaeda at Al Farouq.
- The detainee's lengthy history of highly non-compliant behavior during detention; the Board recognizes that the detainee has made recent improvements in compliance; however, the Board was unable to further explore that improved compliance due to the detainee's refusal to attend the second session of the hearing.
- The Board's inability to assess the detainee's current threat level due to his refusal to answer questions in the first hearing and refusal to attend the second session of the hearing and provide information regarding his pre-detention activities and motivations.

The Board encourages the detainee to provide information to the PRB regarding his pre-detention motivations and actions to assist the Board in assessing his current mindset and intentions. The Board encourages the detainee to continue to improve his compliance with the guard force.

The PRB recommends the following conditions that relate to the detainee's transfer
