The Periodic Review Board, by consensus, determined that continued law of war detention of the detainee is no longer necessary to protect against a continuing significant threat to the security of the United States.

In making this determination, the Board considered the detainee's credible desire to participate in the Saudi rehabilitation program and reintegrate into society, the detainee's willingness to submit to the authority of the Saudi Government, the Board's confidence in the efficacy of the Saudi rehabilitation program, and Saudi Arabia's ability to implement security assurances after completion of the program. The Board also noted the detainee's candor with the Board, including regarding his presence on the battlefield and his worldviews, the detainee's expressed regret and commitment to not repeat his past mistakes, the detainee's family's commitment to support the detainee upon transfer, and the detainee's recent positive change in behavior and mindset while in detention. The Board acknowledges the detainee's past terrorist-related activities and connections, specifically the detainee's admission of support for the Taliban, association with two al-Qa'ida leaders, and his training in building electronic circuit boards. However, the Board found the risk the detainee presents can be adequately mitigated by transfer for prosecution and rehabilitation in Saudi Arabia.

The Board recommends transfer only to Saudi Arabia for potential prosecution-consistent with the laws of Saudi Arabia and participation in the Mohammed bin Naif Counseling and Care Center, with the appropriate security and humane treatment assurances as negotiated by the Special Envoys and agreed to by relevant USG departments and agencies.
